

Michael R. Guttery is a Biometrician with the Alaska Department of Fish and Game, Division of Wildlife Conservation. Michael received his Bachelor of Science degree in Wildlife Biology from the University of Tennessee-Martin in 2003, Master of Science degree in Forestry from Mississippi State University in 2006, and Ph.D. in Wildlife Biology from Utah State University in 2010. Michael also received post-doctoral training at Utah State University and the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Michael's research interests are in quantitative ecology and wildlife population ecology, particularly the role of individual heterogeneity in population dynamics.

